MARCH ATTACKED

Chief of Staff, Covered with Decorations, Is Called Second Kaiser.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Jan. 12.—(Crying congressional investigation of army decorations for services during the war. Representative Gallivan declared in the house today that distinguished service medals in proportion were awarded to army officers who never got nearer the front than Washington, than to those who saw service overseas.

"The common talk in the army,"
said Mr. Gallivan, "that our present chief of staff and one of his assistants,
a colonel whose duty was to protect and direct foreign missions
in Washington, have no space between their belts and their collars to display the medals they have been given them as a result of this service."

Congress should investigate all awards, Mr. Gallivan said, so that the reasons why some medals were awarded were acted upon favorably and others disregarded.

D. S. M. Riddick.
"The distinguished service medal
has been awarded and certainly in a manner in which it has been passed out to those who belong to the lobby," said Mr. Gallivan. "It has been used as a reward for friendship;
it has even been used to placate
those who have been removed to make room for some one else."

"The reading of the sum total of the citations in award in the distinguished service medal to soldiers and officers of the army during the war, if believed, would certainly impress one that the war was fought and ended at the headquarters near the shadows of the Washington monument."

"Surely, the 'lounge lizards' of the second army of the 'potomac' can have no quarrel with their comrades,
the lobby lancers of the capital as to the number of D. S. M.'s these two valiant units received for heroic service in this war."

"As for France, wherever the commander-in-chief sent a 'commissioned messenger boy' on the part of the D. S. M. was sure to be the reward."

Chief of Staff Removed.
"In Washington we had four different chiefs of staff during the war, and one of them was known as 'the chief of staff' at about the workings of the department knows that the predecessors of the present high chief of staff, General Wood, were considered unequal to the task. Through one pretense or another, they were removed."

"Continually when a man has failed in the performance of any specific task he is removed without reward.
These men have on the contrary been rewarded for the failure of the president of the United States, Mr. Gal-livan, to remove them."

"The Kaiser, commander of the army for consistency yet alive, said:
'Me and Gott! Not so your chief of staff, D. S. M. Personal who sees no reason for including Gott.' It is simply 'me'
with him."

In France there was a board of awards of medals that sat in Champagne and looked with easy favor on giving awards to their friends and with blind eyes and deaf ears to the recommendations of those without the pale."

Wood Kept on This Side.
The failure of the Major General Wood overseas in command of troops was a "case of international notoriety," Mr. Gallivan said, adding that General Wood never gave an important active command during the war, but "to placate public opinion, something
must be done."

The bestowal of the D. S. M. on General Wood, he continued, "is heartily approved by the entire military service. It is a commendation of a man who has been a soldier and a leader, and who has given an important active command during the war, but "to
placate public opinion, something
must be done."

BUILDING CODES PASSED BY COUNCIL; TO NAME INSPECTOR

A new ordinance creating a building code and providing for appointment of a city building inspector was passed by the council last night without a dissenting vote to take effect 10 days after publication in the official city paper, the Gazette.

The ordinance is the outgrowth of a movement launched by the Chamber of Commerce six months ago. In the future it will be necessary to inspect buildings before a permit to erect a new building is given to the owner.

"The code as worked out by Aldermen Emil Pautz and other councilmen embodies all the features of the ordinances of leading cities, according to John Yohn, city planner.
Examination of applicants for the position will be conducted here in the near future."

Five Cab Drivers Licensed.
The council last night granted taxi
drivers' licenses to Andrew Schoof, 24; L. E. Lyke, 47; J. J. Murray, 34;
John Buggs, 21; and Burr Stranger, 25. Lee Shorwood was given a license to operate a taxi-cab.

A request filed by A. E. Bingham
as secretary of the Janesville Amusement company for the city to pay a bill of $254.62, was denied upon motion of Ald. E. H. Ransom. The company seeks to have the city pay for repainting a sewer between South Main and Duft streets which burst last year causing much damage to the Beverly block. Mr. Ransom and city Engineer Kerch said it was the private sewer and that the city was not liable for keeping it in repair.

George W. Yohn, Jr., was given permission to hang a sign and install a free air station in front of his place of business on North Franklin street.
A new filing cabinet and flat top desk were ordered purchased for the medical clinic.

Blasting Must Stop.
The Federal Land and Gravel company was ordered to stop blasting its pit on South Main street as Ald.
Pautz declared patients at the detention hospital were being virtually killed out of their beds as a result of the explosions.

Aldermen Pautz, Ransom and Cronin were appointed as a committee to draw up a bill to pay for the land of the family of the late W. P.
Cade, former mayor, upon recommendation of Mayor Welsh.

The ordinance changing the name of Irving Place back to its original name of Yuba street was given its first two readings and laid over until the next meeting.

Recommendation of the city planning commission that lot 22 in Smith & Bailey's addition in the First ward be purchased for the city, was given its first reading. The bonds of C. V. Kerch, James True, J. E. Aulon, and P. C.
Grant as members of the city planning commission were accepted.

Lease of Voting Booth.
The council completed a one-year
lease of the Fifth ward voting booth to the owner, Thomas Sullivan, at $55 per year, with the privilege to re-lease at the end of the first year.

The city clerk was ordered to pay the following bills: $2.10 to the Federal Land & Gravel company;
$171.21 to Consumers' Coal company for coal furnished city hall; $11.50
to Griffiths & Hines for coal furnished poor woman; and $1,415.47
to Hedges & Langdon for work on the new city lock-up.

On receipt of reports of the police department, municipal court, plumb-ing inspector, board of education were received together with the annual reports of the fire department and the city health officer.

FINAL TREATY ACTION HOPES VANISHED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Jan. 12.—Possibility of final action on the peace treaty with Japan was vanishing today. Not before last week, spokesmen of both parties predicted, was any action probable.

While negotiations toward adjustment of differences over reservations gained new impetus today, it was said some democrats were disposed to let the treaty pass without a vote
Thursday, when a minority leader
will be elected.

JAP SHIP COMES WITH MUNITIONS TO MEXICO

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
San Antonio, Jan. 12.—That a large shipment of munitions, which arrived at the port of Manzanillo, Mexico, Dec. 24 last, was accompanied by the simultaneous arrival of the Japanese cruiser Takoma, is the substance of a government report which has been forwarded to the war department.
The report will be investigated by the senate sub-committee investigating the Mexican situation.

According to the report, the Takoma
apparently was escorting the ship bearing arms and ammunition which had been purchased in Japan through Colonel Emilio Cicero of the Mexican army, and Manuel Perez Romero, Mexican minister at Tokio.

The Yukuma, the report goes on to state, was met at Manzanillo by a committee representing the Mexican department of war and marine, and its commanding officer and as many of his subordinates as could be spared, were invited to visit Mexico City.

OPERATORS REFUSE PRICE FIXING IN STRIKE AWARD

MINE BOSSES MAKE ONLY ONE RESERVATION TO
DECISION BY COM-MISSION.

LIMIT ON TIME

Will Not Be Party to Coal
Schedule beyond Period of Lever Law.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Jan. 12.—Mines operators in the coal competitive field today told the commission named to settle the bituminous coal strike that they would accept with a single reservation the award the commission might make.

The operators said they would not be a party to the fixing of coal prices beyond the period of effectiveness of the Lever law, the war-time measure under which the government has controlled food and fuel prices. Ralph Crews, counsel for the central operators, explained that in making this reservation, the operators could not legally join any price fixing agreement. He also said the operators would accept the award contingent upon the preparation of answers to a series of questions which
the operators yesterday asked the commission.

In accepting the commission's authorization, the operators, Mr. Crews said, understood that the commission would not make any modification of the award. The operators said they would accept the award
contingent upon the preparation of answers to a series of questions which
the operators yesterday asked the
commission.

President Robinson reminded him
that President Wilson's letter creating the commission authorized it only to make an award which might be made by the government. He asked if the operators would not modify the language in their acceptance accordingly, and Mr. Crews
finally agreed that the commission should make that point.

"The mine workers understood that the award shall be a basis of a new wage agreement, and not of itself a wage agreement," said John I.
Lewis, acting president of the mine workers. "I trust the record is not being made here which can be used subsequently as a basis for refusal of the operators to enter into a wage agreement the commission's award."

President Robinson said Mr. Crews stipulated that the commission should have no power to award
the procedure should be had cleared up this point.

Miners' representatives put before the commission that the full demand for the coal strike was made and refused by the operators before the strike last November. Acting President Lewis recited demands for an increase of 10 percent in wages, the hour work day and five day week, for the abolition of double shifts and for the consideration by districts of internal differences and defended
each of these points.

Living Standards Too Low
"The living conditions and the social condition of the miners, the environment in which they live, the demand to raise his family have ever been too low," he said.

The efficiency and health of mine workers, he declared, require the shortest working hours. He said the miners would endeavor to show the committee that the average bituminous coal miner did not work more than 30 hours a week in any case.

"These demands were not put up by us as a mere pretense on which to trade," he continued. "They originated in the minds of miners themselves. We were not asked to make the convention which ordered the negotiations before the strike."

U. S. WAIVES CLAIM TO TONNAGE GIVEN UP BY GERMANY

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, Jan. 12.—In the supreme council today Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador, raised the question whether the council intended to maintain the percentage previously adopted for the distribution among the allied and associated powers of the war-time tonnage to be given up by Germany.

Receiving an answer in the affirmative, Ambassador Wallace informed the council that the United States, in that case, waived its claim to any part of this tonnage.

Consideration was given by the supreme council this morning to a plan for the appointment of committee of ambassadors to complete the details for the presentation and signing of the Hungarian peace treaty and to carry through the other unfinished business of the peace conference.

The necessity for the return home of the Italian and British members of the council was advanced at the reason that no other organization should be created.

Whether Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador, would be a member of the proposed committee was not determined. Ward B.
Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, declared today.

Mr. Wheeler cited the attempt of New Jersey and Ohio to withdraw ratification of the 14th amendment.
Congress refused to accept the repeal and both states were counted as original states in the new constitution. Without their ratification the amendment lacked sufficient votes to become operative.

Chief Justice Marshall was quoted
by Mr. Wheeler as follows:
"The principle is asserted that one legislature is competent to repeal an act of another legislature. The power of the council of the league of nations is competent to pass. The correctness of this principle, so far as respects
general legislation, can never be contested. It is a principle of the law under a law, a succeeding legislature cannot undo it. The past cannot be recalled by the most absolute power."

NEXT TURK SULTAN HAS BUT ONE WIFE; MARRIED FOR LOVE

(By Associated Press.)—Turkey's next sultan, Abdul Medjid, now the heir apparent, will be the first to have but one wife, and he is expected to marry a girl of such position as the celebrated Roxelana, the powerful favorite wife of Suleiman the Magnificent whose tomb is in Constantinople. Abdul Medjid is regarded as one of the most interesting personalities of Turkey. He is 23 years of age and a prisoner in the house of his father, Abdul Aziz, who was sultan for 15 years until his deposition and death in 1909.

"I was happy during those long years," he said to the Associated Press, "because I married early. At 24, married in the year 1900, I used my time improving my mind, drawing wisdom from the works of the world's philosophers." He is no longer officially a prisoner. Since the deposition and sudden death of Abdul Hamid in 1909, and the advent of the young Turks, he has been free to travel at will. He has traveled in Asia, or in Constantinople, is concerned, and also to a certain freedom of speech.

"When I was a small child, which is not often, his gray hair and mustache and wide, Caucasian blue eyes gave him the thoughtful air which has since been his. He was the great sultan of the whirligig of politics, internal and international, gave him his chance to fulfill his dream of saving the wrecks of the Ottoman Empire."

"We have the makings yet of a great people, of a people that will stand in the arts of peace and industry under proper conditions," he said with an air of deep conviction.

"Why won't America drive us out of the world?" he asked in a pathetic manner common to many of the men of the nations defeated in the war. "Why should we harbor these hostile war vessels in our harbor a year after the armistice?" he asked, pointing to the ships swinging in the Bosphorus.

"Aren't the Turks anxious for an American mandate because they thereby see an opportunity to save themselves from partition and loss of Constantinople?" he was asked.

Here the prince dropped his French and began talking rapidly in Turkish. Kamad Emin Bey, a graduate of Columbia University and editor of a nationalist paper, who interpreted as follows:

"We have no means of letting the people in America know what kind of people we are and what we think. The Turks want the Americans to cause them to be treated as equals. They would treat them honestly and help them develop a rich country to the profit of both. They have never traveled here much, nor gotten to know the possibilities of our people, who are reasonably honest and hard working. It cannot be said that the Turks have betrayed their foreign friends so long as the latter acted in good faith. We have a long tradition of friendship with the liberal western powers. After the Turkish revolution of 1908, we were most anxious to continue these relations."

But here came our difficulty. These powers (England and France) wished to maintain good relations with the Russians and, without realizing it, were thus making it impossible for the Russian influence to become so strong that every person favorable to Turkey in the French and English embassies were drawn from by their governments."

"If the Americans don't come to us now, the end of it all may be a partition leading to the loss of what America may be involved."

Asked if he were a partisan of the nationalist movement, the prince answered: "A person in love with his throne can't become involved in particular movements but must represent the entire people."

The interview was by the prince saying: "Now let me interview you. Will America keep her word and sign the peace and enter the league of nations?"

Then he shook hands warmly, and touched his heart and forehead in sign of farewell, and motored back to his home and studio, where he is painting new pictures of his beloved Caucasian wife and his son and daughter.

Stenciling Your Curtains. By Carolyn Sherwin Bailey. Your own room, dainty and decorated, may have stenciled curtains to match. The same stencil design of flowers or fruits that you used for the chairs and table will be attractive for the curtains. Use heavy, unbleached cotton, chesleoth, acrilin. These materials stencil well, and make good wearing curtains.

First Step. Lay a large piece of blotting paper on a board, and over this the edge for the corner of the curtain that you are going to stencil. The stencil pattern should then be pinned to these about half an inch from the hole. Then test your oil colors on an old piece of cloth. The paint should be as thin as possible to give the right color.

When the stencil is small, which is not often, his gray hair and mustache and wide, Caucasian blue eyes give him the thoughtful air which has since been his. He was the great sultan of the whirligig of politics, internal and international, gave him his chance to fulfill his dream of saving the wrecks of the Ottoman Empire.

Swing Rowing Machine. By Grant M. Hyde. You've heard of the rowing machine used in college gymnasiums to develop the back, leg, and arm muscles of varsity crew men? A swinging-plank rowing-machine is a similar device that any ingenious boy can set up in the attic, basement, or wherever there is room and fresh air.

The principal part of the rowing machine is a swinging-plank hung on four ropes from joists or rafters above. The plank should be 10 feet long, 1 1/2 to 2 inches thick, and 10 to 12 inches wide. It should hang about 8 inches above the floor on four ropes tied separately to prevent tilting. At the center, it might be hung on four long narrow boards, say 1x4 inches, pivoted on spikes at each end.

The handles, or stationary oars (E and F) may be made of sections of the handle of an old shovel or rake. The uprights (D and G) to which they are fastened with bolts, should be about 2 feet long and of 2x4s. The crosspiece (C) to which the uprights are nailed should be 2x4 about 3 feet long. The clearance between the inside ends of the handles must be at least 20 inches. Along the center line, there should be 6 inches long, nailed edgewise to floor.

The distance between the handles and footrest depends on the boy's size. Hang the plank and build the oar and footrest frameworks. Before nailing them to the floor, set the plank in the footrest, and almost touching the back to the plank, and keep legs absolutely straight. While in that position, have someone place the footrest so that it is against the feet and the frame-work so that you can just reach it with your hands by stretching. Then nail the frameworks in that position.

To use the machine, sit on the plank, with the feet on the footrest and pull yourself forward with your hands, allowing knees to bend. Then push back with your feet, and slowly and pull back. A load of boys on the plank will help the exercise.

Opera Singers Buy Applause, 'Tis Said

(By Associated Press.)—Chicago, Jan. 13.—Singers of the Chicago Grand Opera company have been paying for applause at the rate of $50 a week to a performer according to Charles Fontaine, a member of the company. An assistant stage manager, he said, was head of the clique.

Fontaine explained that the clique leader told the applauders what singers to applaud, when to start a demonstration and what was the most successful time to applaud. He said the clique's reception would appear "wildly enthusiastic."

"I pay $20 a performance," Fontaine said. "Everybody else pays and the clique has it in its power to ruin me if I hold out."

Alexandro Dorel, another member of the company, said he had defied the clique although its leader had threatened to "cut off his artistic head."

Herbert Johnson, comptroller of the company said he had heard rumors "somebody was shaking down the artists and that last month a circular letter was sent to the singers advising them it was not necessary to pay for the applause."

1920 STREET PAVING PROGRAM SLASHED

By proper repaving, such as scarifying and sufficiently rolling, the present paving will last for several years, thereby saving the expense of repaving at this time when the property owners of the city are burdened with an unprecedented heavy tax load. "Second—that on account of the high cost of proposed paving material, such repaving cannot be done within cost limited by statute."

"Third—That the proposed plans and specifications select and limit the paving material, thereby precluding competition in bidding for paving with other materials of equal sufficiency and durability."

A heated discussion of Alderman Hill's two paving resolutions which were adopted sometime ago, might have been avoided had the city engineer been called upon before to explain what delay it would cause his department. After the fireworks had died down he was asked to tell what delay the addition of concrete and brick to the original asphalt specifications might cause. "When he said it would be two weeks and that it would still be possible to have contractors on the job in April, the controversy ended and the bills were passed with only two dissenting votes, those of Aldermen E. H. Hanson of the Third ward and W. W. Menzies of the Second.

Mayor Hall something to say. "We cut out of the good ship, 'The 1920 Paving Program,' being dashed to pieces on the rocks of Alderman Hill's bills were passed. Mayor Welsh called for a discussion, declaring a moment later that he had something to say if no one else did. He asked Alderman Dulin to take the chair and descended to the floor of the council chamber where in a ten-minute talk he branded the whole proposition an attempt of Milwaukee and Chicago councilmen to get a foothold here, laying emphasis that he would turn his hand toward the paving program if the one adopted at the last meeting was rescinded.

"We have been open and above board for more than a year in everything we have done," the mayor stated. "Of everything that we have contemplated the people have been fully informed before hand. Nearly every evening our papers have carried stories of civic activities. There has been no attempt made to cover anything up."

"We went into the paving program with a full knowledge of what we were doing. Several meetings of the board of public works were held and the city engineer devoted his time to the task. These people all knew what was planned in the line of paving."

"There was no objection to our asphalt paving program as presented by the Portland Cement trust from both Chicago and Milwaukee began working here. In the past year and a half they have offered to give me and mine no end to give me auto rides. During that time I have been approached by no less than eight of them."

Ready to Quit
 "Now if we're going to be a lot of school boys and let Milwaukee and Chicago dictate to us, then we might just as well quit. I've laid awake nights worrying over it. I have suggested to hold meetings of taxpayers and let them decide the paving. If we did this there would be jangles and wrangles and the end would be that we wouldn't get anything done. We're now suffering from an over-dose of doing nothing for the last 20 years. If we cut out this paving now, I'll wash my hands of the whole affair."

OPEN ROADS.

Although the weather has been favorable to open roads for the last few weeks and general traffic has not been delayed to any great extent, the necessity for the county board to make some provision for clearing snow from highways is just as great as though we had been compelled to fight snow drifts since winter began.

The board has the opportunity, under the state law, to provide funds for keeping the highways open and should not adjourn without taking action on the matter. The law is plain in that it is the duty of the board to provide these funds. If it fails to do so it will be up to the town or village units to foot the bills.

Keeping the roads clear is of interest to all the taxpayers of the county and it would seem reasonable that the expense be spread over the entire county.

The argument that the old methods of transportation are adequate will not hold in these days of progress, and necessity for greater speed in getting products of the farm and the cities from one point to another. Automobiles have come to stay. The amount of money invested in these vehicles in Rock county is enormous, with the prospects of many thousands being added this year. It is poor business to keep these vehicles tied up part of the year because of closed roads.

It has been proven that the roads can be kept open at small expense in comparison to the benefits which would result. In our own county small stretches of highways have been kept open by individuals this year and those who did the work and those who have used the roads have been satisfied with the endeavors.

An interesting discussion of the subject is given in a recent issue of "The Power Wagon," a monthly publication. It follows in part:

"The larger part of the tonnage of all railroads is transported over highways in part of its course of distribution. A highway is built for utilitarian purposes only. Because of this a road repair is necessary. If highways are to be 100 percent efficient, it is very essential that the traffic be not obstructed by snow. Mail, parcel post and express service is as important in winter as summer. The transportation of coal and other fuel is more important in winter than in summer and upon main market roads and mail routes it is just as essential to have them free from snow as it is for railroad tracks to be free from snow.

"There must be a method and organization for repair, maintenance and the removal of snow or other obstructions at the same time the road is open for traffic. The same state highway organization which is used for maintenance and repair should be used for snow removal. If there were little or no demand for traffic during snow weather, the cost of snow removal would be justified anyway. If snow be permitted to melt on the roadbed it tends to soften the subgrade and loosen the base under the wearing surface. Evidences of these damages may be seen after heavy snows late in the winter and early springtime. If snow is not removed on a trunk highway, the traffic will gradually break its way through when thaw begins. The constant tracking in the same rut produces disastrous results to road surface, making repairs expensive and difficult. A large percentage of road repairs are due to winter traffic that is not removed. This is due to the neglect of the highways during winter time.

"The Connecticut state report shows that the cost of snow removal during the heavy snowfall of 1917 was slightly over $10,000 on a total of 100 miles. Including the equipment, the rate per mile would be about $45. Under normal conditions of snowfall this figure would probably not reach $30 per mile. The cost of snow removal, therefore, is considerably less than the cost of damage to the road itself if the snow is allowed to remain on the surface.

"In Pennsylvania, during the same year, the cost of keeping snow from the state highways, used mostly by army trucks, was from $50 to $500 per mile. Considering the highest figures were for the cost of keeping the state roads clear on the Allegheny mountain ridges, it will be readily seen that even this amount justified the saving that would be made in the regular maintenance cost of the mountain roads."

WILBUR F. CARLE.

In the passing of Wilbur F. Carle another of the sturdy characters who had much to do with the building and development of the community has answered the last call. Mr. Carle was one of the few remaining early settlers and was a keen business man known to many Rock county people, who will remember him as a man whose word was as good as his bond.

While gruff in manner, he had hidden a kindly, generous heart, and his many thoughtful acts will be remembered by those who knew him best. A great lover of the game of politics, he interested himself in a quiet way for the pleasure and excitement of the campaign as well as because he felt it a public duty.

Mr. Carle was a Christian character, although not identified with any church the latter years of his life. His ideals of uprightness in life will be an inspiration to those who knew him.

CLEMENCEAU'S PLAIN TALK.

In a visit to his Chamber of Deputies constituency Premier Clemenceau talked in a way that would have "delighted" the heart of the late Colonel Roosevelt when he urged on France the necessity of re-peopleing the nation. His recipe of families of 10 to 12 children would certainly be effective in time to accomplish the

A MAN'S JOB.

It's a man's job to be cheerful
In the face of grief and care;
Any weeping can be fearful
And a victim of despair.
But it takes a man to swallow
All the bitter in the cup,
And to live for what may follow
Without ever giving up.

It's a man's job to be kindly.

It's a man's job to be true;
None can shut his eyes and blindly
Try to journey this life through
And not see the wrongs about him.
Or the hazards in his way;
There are times when fate will flout him
And his feet will go astray.

Not in fools and craven creatures

Are the worthy virtues found,
Not on blank and lifeless features
Do the cheerful smiles abound;
He who to his best is living
And for truth and honor stands,
And is cheerful in his giving,
Has a man's job on his hands.

To be kind and thoughtful ever,

To be strong in times of need,
To put all your best endeavor
In an effort to succeed,
And to fail and keep on trying,
And not lose your cheerful ways,
Is a job, there is no denying,
For a real man, nowadays.

result. The problem is one that troubled France long before the war. Her families on the average had dwindled in size to an extent to cause real alarm. That Clemenceau should dwell on the subject in a friendly talk with people who know him as their representative and who can best appreciate his sincerity is proof that it is a question of high importance. He also tenders some remarks on the subject of taxation that may be applied elsewhere. "Do not expect the taxes to be satisfactory to you," he said. "Taxes never please the payer, but the duty to pay is as important as that fulfilled by the soldier." The soldier did his work. It is not less the duty of those who profited from the work the soldier did to pay the bill, not only in France but here as well. To pay the cost of the war is as much a patriotic duty as to fight the war.

Pack of Bald Eagles

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, Jan. 13.—High up in western mountain ranges, far from railroad and the glare of the trails, there is a great wealth in gold, silver and other precious metals. Much of it is undiscovered, because no prospectors would waste time hunting for gold mines in situations from which the gold could never be brought out. But some of these deposits are well known and they would be far safer from robbery than most gold in transport away from railroads is nowadays.

The stuff is there all right, but you would need a pack of bald eagles to bring it out. The pack of eagles, of which the old-timers used longingly to dream, has become a reality. Well, the pack of eagles is made of mechanical birds that fly faster and higher and lift more weight than the lustiest eagle that ever flew. Why, the latest model can carry over 100 pounds of cargo, and it can fly to these inaccessible deposits of wealth, carrying the machinery in, bit by bit, and the metal out.

This idea is not merely the pipe dream of a reporter. It originated with a mining expert of high social position and high government position. He knows a great deal about gold mines and something about airplanes. He has a trained and experienced imagination with practical ability will astonish the world and enact upon the minds of the people the idea of bringing gold and silver and possibly radium down from the mountain tops in flying machines.

The chief of the air service was confronted by a newspaper reporter who had heard of his idea, he was immediately seized with that acute panic which is the result of a scientist's man when he encounters a representative of the press. The average scientist, in just as spontaneously afraid of a newspaper as a cat is afraid of a bull dog. The minute his natural enemy comes in sight he gets flustered, and usually goes up a high tree or into a hole.

At any rate, the scientist was genuinely and deeply alarmed at the idea that his reputation for conservatism, or that of a man of the old school, might be connected with the publication of a sensational story of his effecting a landing by airplane. It is a practical thing. Nevertheless, when he had been promised that his name would not be used, he admitted that it did.

The possibilities of the airplane as a means of carrying freight, and of carrying passengers, are pretty well known. It has been said that it costs about as much to carry a pound by airplane as it does to carry a ton by rail. In other words, the cost is prohibitive. That is why, so far, the airplane has been used for carrying nothing heavier than mail. In the second place, an airplane must have a safe and adequate landing field before it can operate at all. At present, where the United States Air Service is asked to land a plane anywhere, it stipulates that there must be a level field at least 1,800 feet square, and the surface must be clear of a field that large on some of the mountain tops where the rich mines are located. But the air service officials have also officially predicted that within a year or two they will be able to land on a field 200 feet square with comparative safety. They are learning more about the landing business. And it would seem that a landing field of 200 feet square could be arranged on most mountain tops.

Of course, an airplane can carry only a few hundred pounds of freight. It would hardly be practicable to ship out crude gold or silver. But the air service is working on the idea of carrying small quantities of these metals in the form of dust or in the form of small pieces of metal.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY K. MOUTON

PILGRIMS' PROGRESS IN SOCIETY.

The new calling cards were beautiful. They cost $5,000 a year feeling away entirely and put a $10,000 a year feeling in its place. Good stationery has a psychological effect. It gives one that intangible sensation, its only drawback being that it is apt to lead one into excesses of money spending. How suits have the same effect on some people. The one I bought when Luella and I were married, and which I still have, has led me into many foolish investments. I sort of like me above my station in life and I don't come down again until I am in my old business suit next morning. It isn't the highest cost of the dress suit that counts, but the upkeep.

I often think of Uncle Russell Sage and his baggy trousers and his sun-colored business suit. Also I often cogitate upon the fact that the only letter I ever received from a millionaire was the one in the back of an old envelope with a lead pencil. Millionaires become so not so much by what they do as by what they do not.

I could not deny that our new stationery had its insidious effect upon the amateur cultivator. Slowly we slipped into society, and when our name was first mentioned in the public prints it was in connection with the name of a new stationery. I found that Luella was right in stating that the $5,000 a year would not make so much difference. Our $5,000 a year was considered quite some money; but the more our civilization has progressed, the more we have learned about currency, and what it will not do. It was Luella's diplomacy and our middle name that gave us our present position in society.—(To be continued.)

ASK US

The Gazette maintains an information bureau at Washington, D. C., under the direction of Frederic J. Haskin. Questions will be answered on any subject. Those desiring information should send a letter to the Janesville Daily Gazette, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C., and enclose a stamp. The letter will be answered by the bureau.

Q. My net income for 1919 was $7,000. I am a married man with two dependents. How much income tax will I have to pay? E. L. S.

A. Your income tax will be about $28.75. The normal rate of the personal exemption of $2,000 allowed a married man, plus $200 for each dependent. On the first $4,000 of the balance of $8,000 you pay at the normal rate of 4 percent, $160. On the remaining $1,100 you will pay at the normal rate of 8 percent, $88. A half acre last year and a half acre this year. The total, normal and surtax, is $258, as compared with $412 for 1918.

Q. How many huts did the Y. M. C. A. maintain over H. C. L.?

A. Overseas the "Y" maintained more than 1,900 huts and tents for the use of the A. E. F. The organization has finished 400 million sheets of letter paper, 200 million envelopes and 16 million post cards to the boys.

Q. What town in Belgium is to be left unrestored? H. C. L.

A. According to present plans, Ypres is to be left in its ruined condition as a war monument.

Q. How did the present dress coat originate? J. W. T.

A. The dress coat, or swallow-tail, worn today, was originally used as a riding coat. The front skirts were cut away for the reasonable purpose of preventing them from getting in the way in riding. The pair of present useless buttons behind the waist, held by some to be relics from the times when such buttons really served the purpose of fastening these skirts behind. Another theory of the origin of a dress coat is that when kings and such dignitaries upon occasion wore trains, they were buttoned on. The buttons still survive.

Q. What was the greatest battle of the World war in which our soldiers participated? A. H. L.

A. The Meuse-Argonne undoubtedly deserves the distinction. It lasted 47 days and 1,200,000 American troops were engaged in it.

Q. How many bills were introduced in congress at the last session? J. H.

A. There were 10,735 bills introduced in the house, while the senators fathered 3,467.

Q. Is a man entitled to government compensation from the time he was wounded until he was discharged eight months later? C. A. G.

A. A soldier is not entitled to any compensation from the government until after he has been discharged from the service. While he is still in the service he receives his pay and also hospital and medical attention.

Q. Is the report true that among the items of the expenses of the American peace commission in Paris was one for $100,000 for intoxicating liquors? L. M. H.

A. The State Department says the report that a bill for a large sum of money was presented to the State Department by the owners of Hotel Chillon in Paris for intoxicating liquors consumed by the peace commissioners is absolutely without foundation.

PERSONETTE

WILLIAM GEORGE JORDAN.

William George Jordan, the well-known editor, is a bachelor and so of course he has written books on how to bring up children and kindred subjects. But when his book, "Little Problems of Married Life," appeared, it was too much for his many friends. As Mr. Jordan says, they gave him the merry habit in seven octaves. But this did not phase him. He merely drew himself up proudly. "Then according to your theory that one must be intimately acquainted with a subject before one can write on it," he said tellingly, "the greatest authority on pearls must be an oyster."

This silenced them. And indeed it would be hard to answer such an argument logically.

Friends of Mr. Jordan's, who have been privileged to visit The Little Room, are hoping that he will write a book of hints to housewives next. You go into one of the particularly large and unromantic-looking business buildings just off Fifth avenue on Thirty-ninth street, ride up in the elevator with particularly hard and prominent-looking business men, knock on Mr. Jordan's door—and then you are in another world. It is one of the most artistic and restful homes in New York as well as one of the most famous. It is all blended browns and greens with just the right touches of brightness in the hangings, candles, and ferns in copper bowls. The walls are lined with books, hundreds and hundreds of books.

But not because of this should Mr. Jordan come to the rescue of harried housewives. It is because of his ingenious arrangements. Behind those coat-looking doors, neatly stowed into ship-shape compartments, are all the necessities of life—dishes, food, tables, shoe-shining arrangements, and a bed that will practically roll out and put itself up if you call it by its first name, a cot. Everything Mr. Jordan could possibly need if he were stranded on a desert island. It is a room such as light housekeepers dream of.

Muskegon—A wolf hunt that resulted in the killing of one wolf of pack of eight made local citizens recall pioneer days. Missing sheep caused the hunt and the dogs sighted a pack of eight wolves. One left the pack and drew towards the house and led them off the chase. After a 48-hour pursuit, covering 400 miles, the lone wolf was killed just outside Muskegon. At no time were the dogs further away from the wolf than 60 or 80 feet. The chase led through snow covered fields, gardens and woods, many times passing along the public highways and through barn yards.

WOMEN GETTING DRUNK ON EAU DE COLOGNE

London, Eng.—Prohibition, such as the Russians desire, will accentuate an evil which the high prices of ordinary wholesome refreshment have already encouraged. It would mean the consumption of methylated spirits, and even scotch, as beverages.

This is the opinion of Major MacSweeney, the secretary of the Anti-Prohibition league, who has recently returned from a tour in the north of England.

"All over the country this injurious habit is reported to be spreading fast," said Major MacSweeney. "The increased desire for methylated spirits is directly attributable to the shortage of the proper kind of drinks. In a recent report the chief constable of Liverpool stated that there were no fewer than 10 cases of women being drunk on this spirit in one street at the same time."

FARM MORTGAGES.

One of the shrewdest financiers of the country recently gave the following advice: "Investors do not place their money in the market. When they do, their savings place their savings where they will know where they are five years from now."

What he means is that investors who do not place their money in the market, but place it in farm mortgages and securities in this same class, will be the anchor to windward. Every farm loan stands up with any other and depends for its safety on the value behind it.

Gold-Stubeck farm mortgages are desirable, the security is worth many times the amount loaned, they are recommended and offered for sale by a reliable company, and they are made to run years and pay 6% interest. Descriptions mailed on request.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty years old and am very unhappy and lonely. I have to work around wherever I can and don't have a very easy life. I do not go to dances, etc., very often. I would rather be making my time count by something more useful. I do not have very often with my friends, although I have quite a few. I don't go with gentlemen very often either and would appreciate it if I knew more.

I am getting discouraged and have almost given up. Can you tell me how to obtain more friends?

COYGAN.

I presume you would like to be happy more than anything else. Having a number of men friends will not make you so. I would advise you to pitch into your work harder than ever, seeing how much faster and better you can do it. This will give you happiness from achievement. You will also have more free time in which to enjoy yourself.

Each time you touch with your girl friends. They can help you to meet young men. Besides you will find them enjoyable and they will help you to correct your loneliness. You might also meet congenial young men at church.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My girl friend has been going with a young man and I was given an introduction to him. After we had become better acquainted he asked me for a date and I told him he might have it. My friend found it out and becoming jealous phoned him and told him I had cancelled it. Then she told me that the young man had been told that she was not to be seen and I had quarreled.

Do you think I should have made a date with the young man in the first place? Should I keep on going with the girl as a friend? She never offered an apology for the things she said and I think one is due to both of us.

I do not think you should have made the date in the first place. Jealousy is almost sure to follow and then the girl friend is lost. If I were you I would let this matter drop entirely. Try to forgive your girl friend even if she does not apologize. You can never be a close friend again, of course, because you will not be able to trust her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Why is it that people stare unduly at me sometimes on the street? I always take care of myself and see that my clothes are neat.

I have dark brown hair, dark brown eyes and am considered good-looking. Because of this I usually attract attention from the young men and it often causes trouble between my girl friends and me. I have tried hard not to do it, but it seems that the young men can hardly take a gentle hint. How could I break them of it without causing hard feelings?

If you are stared at on the street it is your own fault. A girl who walks along and pays strict attention to her own affairs, not noticing strangers, or staring at people, will not be stared at in the least. Clothes may be neat and at the same time conspicuous. Dress in good taste and your clothes will not encourage staring or flirtations.

Your girl friends are justified in their annoyance. It is unpleasant to be with a girl who attracts flirtations.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Is it all right for a girl to ask a boy to a party after she has met him only once?

THANK YOU.

She should not invite him unless he has asked her for an engagement.

Two Paris Frocks Which Show Tendency Towards Simplicity

While Paris has started the fad for backless bodices it has also set forth many less shocking and thoroughly acceptable fashions this season. Many of the smartest and simplest frocks are of the simple, straight, and of Paris inspiration. There are a few main features which distinguish the Paris frock from the home fashions or those of England. The short sleeve, the short skirt, flounce, pleated ruffles, and Jenny neckline are all marks of Paris designers. The one-piece frock is much more popular in Paris than the suit, just as it is here in America, and it is natural that the smartest and most attractive Paris fashions are found among the frocks and gowns, and not in the suits and coats. Another thing which people are not accustomed to attributing to Paris fashions is simplicity.

Here are two of the newest Paris frocks and both of them are dainty in their simplicity. The one at the left is made of a soft old gold satin with a skirt of pleated flounces and a beaded belt with tiny rhinestone buckles. The day sleeve is long before the elbow is reached and the round neckline is just cut low enough to be graceful. The street frock at the right is made of brown duvetyne. Pin tuck at the hips give the distended effect which is popular just now and a sash and bow at the back add a youthful touch.

GOOD CAKES AND PUDDINGS.

Spice Cake.—Cream good table-spoon each of lard substitute and also with one cup of brown sugar. Add one beaten egg and beat that in good, then add one small teaspoon each of cinnamon, cloves, allspice and a little nutmeg and one tablespoon each of raisins and currants and about a handful of nut meats (a few little pieces of lemon peel and citron add to the favor but can do without). Now add one cup of sifted flour with pinch of salt and little baking powder.

Put in loaf tin. Have oven hot, but turn burner lower before putting cake in. Bake one-half hour.

By adding a little more flour to this recipe nice cookies may be made by dropping a tablespoon about two inches apart on greased pan.

Spiced Cake.—One cup raisins, one-half cup molasses, one cup raisins cut in half, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup hot water, one-half teaspoon soda.

Can be made with sour milk instead of water. Nut meats instead of raisins are good.

Orange Pudding.—One cup sugar, one pint milk, one-quarter cup granulated tapioca, one-half teaspoon salt, one egg, one-half teaspoon vanilla.

Boil the milk. Caramelize the sugar, and then add it to the hot milk. When the sugar is dissolved, add the tapioca. Stir the mixture until the tapioca is transparent; add the salt; stir in the egg carefully and cook until the egg thickens. Add the vanilla and turn into dishes for serving.

Cool. Serve with plain or whipped cream. Chopped nuts may be added to the dessert just before turning into dishes.

DISCOVERIES.

When You Have a Small Washing.—but a large washbowl, a much more convenient and practical utensil is a six-gallon laundry tub.

Wash less gas, less stove space, and is so much easier to handle and lift off the stove. There seems to be less steam, too. The net over the tub with lid having the rim to fit inside the top of can, not outside, as many do.

The Maud Net Curtains.—Never throw away net curtains because they are torn. Dip squares of net in cold starch, apply to the torn part on wrong side of curtain, and iron with a hot iron. The net will be with the original curtain in such a way that the tear cannot be seen.

Leather Dressing.—Three ounces of turpentine and two ounces of white wax dissolved over a slow fire; then add one ounce ivory black and one ounce of indigo well pulverized; mix together. When the net is dry, the leather is dissolved and the ivory black and indigo; stir till cold. Apply thin, then wash afterward and you will have a beautiful polish. Keeps the leather soft. Excellent for leather auto tops.

Price of Turpentine Hits Highest Mark on Record

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 13.—Saturday's closing price for spirits of turpentine, $1.75 a gallon, was the highest ever recorded here, but the price was expected to go even higher when bids were opened. High cost of labor and material and dwindling turpentine forests were given as the cause of the advance.

BEAUTIFUL ENGLISH PEERESS BELIEVES SHE'S WAR WIDOW

"If every woman's organization in the United States were to become a national godmother to one or more of the Armenian orphans, 250,000 of whom have been left parentless, homeless and without food or clothing, we would soon solve the problem of saving this struggling little nation which is America's most real responsibility," says Mrs. Florence Spencer Duryea, who is national director of Women's Organizations of the Near East Relief, with headquarters in New York City.

Mrs. Duryea is engaged in the unusual task of asking the women's organizations to act as national godmothers to the pitiful orphans of Armenia, who have suffered most grievously for the past few years.

In her task of speaking before various organizations, Mrs. Duryea has travelled 30,000 miles in the past six months and maintains that American women are far better travelers than men and carry less luggage.

"Woman is a good traveler because, for one thing, she carries less luggage than the average man," says Mrs. Duryea, who believes in womanly help, and who is exceptionally dainty in appearance. "I see dozens of women on the trains and in the hotels daily, traveling light, with only one small handbag, while men are laden with cumbersome suitcases. Women are far better travelers and can become much more graciously than men."

"Our American women are as good givers as they are travelers and we believe that this system of asking for national godmothers will result in alleviating the suffering of thousands of cold and hungry Armenian children this winter."

Mrs. Duryea may no longer live adjacent to the world's activities, but must become a part of them in order to better protect, not only our own nation, but the struggling ones that turn to us for help.

Mrs. Duryea is starting out on a speaking trip for her cause and she will speak at Columbus, Del., Kansas City, Memphis, Jackson, Birmingham and Wilmington.

Grocer Not to Blame for High Costs, Says Westerner

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Jan. 13.—The grocer is not to blame for the high cost of living, according to Frank D. Connolly, secretary of the Retail Grocers' association of San Francisco. Mr. Connolly came here to present to the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States a plan for forcing down the price of milk to the consumer. He explained that when milk reached 16 cents a quart in his city the grocers contracted with a producers' association to take all the latter's milk instead of "cash and carry" plan, and the price now is 13 cents.

At an executive session of the association today, prices were compared and a difference of more than 10 cents a pound found, between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

New York, N. Y.—To faithful reading of the Bible does Mrs. Katherine Tibball, who was 100 years old today, attribute her long life. But she was unable to do so because of a cold and was unable to venture out on such a rainy day, and so her festivities will be deferred.

SCARED TO DEATH.

Pottsville, Pa.—Evidence before City Coroner Henry Dierscheldt showed that Roy Leiby, a veteran of the World war, was scared to death when he received a shock of electricity which was insufficient to kill a normal man.

Leiby was shell-shocked in France and was much afraid of the electric current against which he had to guard as a lineman of the United Telephone company. When he came to Pottsville with a five-foot wire he yielded and, although no burns were found on him, he was unable to recover from the shock.

Crooked Trails and Straight

By William MacLeod Raine
Copyright, by C. W. Dillingham Company

"Now look-a-here, Miss Kate," Sweeney began to explain. "But she swapt his remonstrance aside."

"No-No-No!" Her voice gathered strength with each repetition of the word. "I won't have it. What are you thinking about?"

"He's a rustler, Miss Kate; belongs to Sonny Stone's outfit," Sweeney answered the girl.

"Can you prove it?"

"We got him double cinched," "Then let the law put him in prison."

"No shot yore paw," Buck reminded her.

"Is that why you're doing it?" "Yes, 'em," and "That's why," they nodded.

Like a flash she took advantage of their admission. "Then I've got more against him than you have, and I say turn him over to the law."

Kate pushed forward, rough and overbearing. "Now see here. We know what we're doing and we know what we're doing. This ain't any business for a girl to mix in. You go back to the house and nurse your father that this man shot."

"So it isn't the kind of business for a girl," she answered scornfully. "It's work for a man, isn't it? No, not for one. For nice—eleven—thirteen—seventeen big, burly men to handle a poor wretched boy."

At that an amused laugh rippled out. It came from Maloney. He was leaning against the door jam. Nobody had noticed him before. He had come in after the girl. When Curly came to think it over later, it he had been given three guesses as to who had been Kate Cullison what was on the program he would have guessed Maloney each time.

"Now that you've relieved your mind, Maloney, I expect any one of the boys will be glad to escort you back to the house," Kate suggested with an acid smile. "What have you got to do with this?" she flamed. "Our boys took him. They brought him here as their prisoner. Do you think I'll let you come over into this county and dictate everything we do?"

"I've got a notion tucked away that you're trying to do the dictating your own self," the Bar Double M. man countered.

"I'm not. But I won't stand by while you get these boys to murder."

Kate laughed scornfully. "You hear your boss, boys." "You've had your say now, Miss Kate. I reckon you better say good-night," advised Buck. And his friends her compliments in a swift flow of feminine ferocity.

Maloney pushed into the circle. "Here, boys, there's something to this lynch game. He's only a kid."

The tide of opinion was shifting. Those who had been worked up to a boiling point by the arguments of Bonita began to resent his activity. Maloney was their prisoner, wasn't he? No use going back to the house. The doctor was going to look after him. They were not half so anxious to hang him as they had thought.

The girl turned to her father and said, "I'm sure you know how worried I am about dad," she apologized with a catch in her breath. "I'm sure you don't think I'd ever have done any of these things."

Maloney pushed into the circle. "Here, boys, there's something to this lynch game. He's only a kid."

Dinner Stories

The gentle Eliza was sitting cheerily in the darkened room, waiting for a visitor who she feared would never come. To tell the truth, she was a little tired, but she had quarreled bitterly the night before.

But what is that? A flag, a step, a shadow. She waited, not, but threw herself in the visitor's arms.

"Oh, my darling!" she sobbed, "I am so glad you have called! I did so long to make it up and do my best to pay you for bringing light into my life. Let us settle peacefully once more, and all day long."

"Well, miss," said a strange voice, "I'm willing, I'm sure. But my instruction is that if you don't I'm to cut off the gas!"

Michael, who was entitled to the British old-age pension which he wanted for his first grant. He could not write his name, but managed to make a cross.

The postmaster, wishing to have a joke with him said, "Now, Michael, don't you think 'twas hardly worth your while to come so far to make that cross?"

"Well," replied the old fellow, "no cross, no crown, my boy!"

Yells from the nursery brought the mother, who found baby gleefully pulling Bobby's curls.

"Never mind, my darling," she comforted, "baby doesn't know how it hurts."

Half an hour later wild shrieks from the baby made her run again to the nursery.

"Why, Bobby," she cried, "what is the matter with baby?"

"Never mind, my darling," she comforted, "baby doesn't know how it hurts."

Alkali in Soap
BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is JANE'S GOLD TABLETS. (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

Two teaspoonfuls will thoroughly cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundant lather, and it leaves the scalp clean, free of dust, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine, silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get JANE'S GOLD TABLETS at any drug store, or by mail, for a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

REMEMBER WE ARE INVITED TO SIT AT THE SMITHS' TABLE TOMIGHT. THEY ARE GIVING A PARTY.

Chicago, Jan. 9. — Presidential years usually are considered "lean" years for baseball. August Herrmann, president of the world's champion Cincinnati Nationals, believes the game in 1920 will enjoy the same prosperity which attended the revival of the sport last season.

The external forces which have shaken the American League, will be settled before the spring training season opens, Herrmann believes, and all other difficulties between the league and National owners will have been successfully ironed out to the benefit of the game.

"I do not expect 1920 to follow the rule as regards presidential elections, but I think it will be materially affected," Herrmann said. "On the contrary, after the game's season, the country will be in a better position to have a reason to count on a great campaign for the coming year."

"Naturally, I want to see Cincinnati win the pennant," said Herrmann, a member of the National Commission. "I'd give a great deal to see such an even balance of strength as there is between the two teams, so that both pennants would be won in the final dash of the season. For this reason I hope to see some division of the complete staff that will help the weaker teams. I would be delighted to see fifty young stars come up from the minor leagues and take all of them make good."

Manager Pat Moran does not contemplate making any changes in his team, but he is not sure of it, said Herrmann. Some of the players already have signed contracts for the 1920 season, but their names will not be announced until after the end of the spring training trip. Some of the players, Herrmann admitted, have been granted increases in salary.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 13.— Condemning Jack Dempsey as an unfit representative of American athletics, the Fort Wayne post of the American Legion unanimously passed a resolution last night declaring opposition to his defending the heavyweight title for America.

The resolution is the result of recent agitation against Dempsey for his war record due to the fact that his service during the war was confined to work in the ship yards.

Cleveland, Jan. 13.—Condemnation of the war record of Jack Dempsey, world's champion heavyweight was voiced in a resolution unanimously adopted by the Meuse-Fahne post of the American Legion. The resolution contains an appreciation of the war record of Georges Carpentier.

BUCK
Of the STARS AND STRIPES A. E. F.

On, they traced my stream-line body
In a glowing, blood-red pool,
And beside my burning sisters
Laid me gently by to cool.
They turned me and they trimmed me,
Watched me long and weighed me well,
Then a gentle man in glasses
Tanned me full of powdered hell.

Then a tense and straining convey Sped me swiftly 'cross the main,
Where the sweetest of fathers put me
On an ammunition train;
Soon I heard my angry cousins
Shriek and shatter as they fell,
While I worried my sergeant
Gave my panting drivers hell.
As they slid me from the caisson
I could hear my sisters screech,
Then the rifling bit my copper
And I heard the banging breach.
Now I all had gone to bed,
There'd be little more to tell;
Just a whisper on the wire,
One more flash of laughing hell,
But I didn't raise a murmur
As I settled in the mud,
And I never once regretted
I was just a useless dud!
For that moment in November
That I left my smoking shell,
"Cease fire" smacked to pieces
All the reckonings of hell.

How terribly frightened you were! Air raids, bombing or general bad-news put you into a panic. I saw that. Swiftly you made your way to the Hut, fearing to look back lest he was behind you with his strange eyes boring holes in your shoulder-blades.

You reached the Hut, rushed to the counter, ducked behind it and escaped the sight of the man who was waiting with sinister purpose. You hesitated a moment, lost, and just as you were about to faint gracefully into the waste can, you caught sight of the M. O.—a spectacled captain you had twice eluded at dances. Now there was no escape and no time to lose. You were a shivering wreck and you ran from the corner of your eye how your pursuer slunk away in time to avoid saluting the captain at your side.

"You seem nervous tonight." Were the air raids too much for you? The Sam Brown inquires.

"Yes," you reply, "with a sigh of relief, "but I came near having to look at pictures of three fiancées, read their letters and advise on a selection. Thank Heaven you saved me."

Tupper Lake, N. Y.—The first lynx to be shot in the Adirondacks in years fell before the gun of J. C. Edgar, of Killbuck. Edgar was hunting in the region between Crystal and Half Moon lakes when he came upon the animal.

The lynx sprang, but Edgar let go with his barrels before his quarry could get down; although his shells only contained fine bird shot.

The lynx measured four feet and two inches long and weighed forty pounds.

Fort Atkinson is the next on the schedule of the Janesville high school basketball players. The locals journey northward to play the game next Showing new life, increased pep and a fast and steady type of basketball against Delavan last night, the team proved they are good chumps, nevertheless, of winning. Their only handicap will be a strange court. Steady and regular practice every day of the week should cure this.

Interest in Coach Crabtree's "fake" play still is manifest. The coach said after the game last week that he did not have his men pull it because they were not ready to play. He is playing such a high class ball that to introduce the trick would not benefit them to any great degree. It is a play that must be used in pinches, he claims.

With Powers, Hager and Bick now in fair condition, the team will journey to bring home the champion.

Delavan's body is high giving the players stability.

Los Angeles, Jan. 13.—Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, sees little chance for holding the Dempsey-Carpentier fight at Tia Juana, Mexico. He believes it must go abroad.
"I can't see a chance in the world of holding the fight at Tia Juana," said Kearns today. "Until I went to San Diego and Tia Juana, I thought there was a possibility of holding the fight there, but after going over the ground personally I came to the conclusion that Lower California is not the proper site."

Fond du Lac.—George Fogarty, wizard of basketball, with George Young, one of the strongest professional players in the country, have reorganized the Company E basketball team and will play a series with the strongest teams in the middle west, closing the season with a trip to the Pacific coast. Fogarty has secured Maclure, all-college star of Indiana, and Ford, forward, and Allison, all-state high school player, and O'Brien, one of the fastest centers in the west. In the opening game at Neenah Wednesday, Company E won.

Champaign, Ill.—Illinois and Ohio basketball teams played a fairly close first half, but the Illini, headed by John Feimley, snowed the Buckeyes under when play resumed, winning by 40 to 22. Feimley caught seven baskets and three free throws, with Chuck Clark the next high man with 12 points. Feimley and Clark led the Buckeyes. Chic Harley made his basketball debut here, but retired early in favor of Clark.

Moses King, who will be boxing instructor, announced training will begin at once for those students interested, and next month matches will be held at various weights. No contests with other colleges have been scheduled, but the athletic board of control has approved the sport and it is expected tournaments will be arranged.
